No Name Band Concert Wins For Juniors; Vote Is 102-44

"There will not be a big name band for the Junior Prom," said Ed Jacobowsky, junior class president, after viewing yesterday's election returns, which read 102-44 against the proposed $1500-$2200 budget.

Jacobowsky expressed disapproval of the small turnout, and also of the class decision. "We'll probably set the Prom budget at about $700 now," he stated. Jacobowsky added that a special class council meeting would be held at 3:30 p.m. today, in Room 24, for the purpose of discussing the election results.

Rally Officers To Be Chosen

Acceptance of the Rally committee's recommendations for new officers possibly will be given by the Student Council at its meeting today at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Chuck Wing, present treasurer of the Rally committee, said that the group will elect its new officers at its meeting this afternoon, and if possible, will submit the names to the council today for approval. Out-going officers will be Tom Mullan, chairman, Beth Calvin, vice-chairman, Misty Gallot, secretary, and Wing.

Lud Spolyar, student body president, said that applications for corresponding secretary on the council for the spring quarter still are being accepted. The position is being vacated by Leverta Raley.

Spolyar said that the council will conclude its meeting early this afternoon to permit the members to take part in a pre-planned tour of the Health Cottage.

Concert Wins Warm Praise

By ARDETH GREENQUIST

A capacity audience in Morris Dailey auditorium last night expressed its great enjoyment of the college Symphony Orchestra's quarterly concert with generous applause for the 69-piece, faculty-student group.

Under the competent direction of Dr. Lyle Downey, the orchestra moved with skill and depth through three well-chosen, varied works. The program opened with the performance of Anton Bruckner's "Symphony No. 7 in E Major," and concluded with Franz Liszt's "Les Preludes," a work which best demonstrated the talents of the orchestra as a whole.

Highlight of the program, from the standpoint of audience approval, was the performance of soloist Rachael Perez in a presentation of Cesar Franck's "Symphonic Variations for Piano and Orchestra."

Dr. Hugh Gillis, chairman of the college's fine arts division, presented Dr. Downey with the medal of honor from the Bruckner Society of America, in recognition of his efforts to promote interest in that composer's music.

Lyke Sells Today; Has 'Middle-of-Road' Policy

By MARV HALL

The winter quarter edition of Lyke magazine, which went on sale this morning, has been put together in such a way that it will please students and faculty alike. It is not ultra-conservative, nor is it daring.

Co-editors Russell Howard and Ann Tremaine have solved the problem of whether Lyke should emphasize feature or humorous material by putting in examples of each.

On the humorous side, the outstanding article is "A New Testament for Drafts," which is unsigned. In "An Alphabetical Tour of the Grading System," Ed Roper gives his own interesting slant on an otherwise trite subject.

Rich Jordan's article deploring Spartan apathy in recent years is sincere and well-written, although we doubt if the situation is as pathetic as he paints it. Among the feature material, there are two photo spreads, one describing "Spartan Review," weekly student radio program, and one on the activities of the student nurses here.

The photography, done by Dick Zimmerman and Bill Gilmore, is excellent throughout, and the make-up and general art and layout work are very well done.

Heart of the Campus

A few recent letters to the Thrust and Parry column have voiced disapproval of a new Student Union, maintaining that the need for new classrooms is more urgent.

Evidently these people feel that a Student Union is a state-endowed building, and therefore does not take priority over other future projects, such as classrooms, etc.

We feel that a new Student Union would not fall into the category of regular state financed projects, in that it would be mainly a place of relaxation for the associated student body as a separate entity—at the same time it would be more an integral part of the school than any other single thing.

We believe the preface in a booklet on the $2,100,000 student-financed Erb Union at the University of Oregon tells the story pretty well:

"If a Union is to respond effectively to the wide range of needs and interests of a college population at leisure, if it is to become genuinely a community center—the social and cultural heart of the campus—it will draw together in one place those facilities and activities which give everyone in the college family a reason for coming to the center."

Council Inner-Views ---

Joan DiCristina, 19-year-old sophomore from San Jose, is among the newest additions to the Student Council. Advocating a platform which included a goal for a closer relationship among the members of each class and among the classes themselves, Joan was chosen in last month's ASB elections as sophomore representative to the council.

A graduate of San Jose high school, Joan said that if this more tightly-knitted relationship were accomplished, it would result in a more active student body.

Joan said she believes the plans for a new Student Union should be put off until more is known about the problems involved and until the ASB can fully support the new building.

me that other colleges had been treated even worse, but I was not mollified. We need that building, and have needed it for years.

And that's the way it goes. The first plans for the Music building are dated Feb. 28, 1945, seven years ago, but it's going up now! And we've been trying to get rid of that old high school for 40 years, but come next May, we should see the splinters fly—I'd like to help.

Just Among Ourselves

By DR. T. W. MacQUARRIE

Years ago somebody told me "When you get good news, celebrate right away, for it might turn sour."

So when they told me in Sacramento that our Science-Library addition would be included in this budget, I celebrated, told everybody, and wrote "Thank you" letters.

At the presidents' meeting in Los Angeles two weeks ago, I learned that later they had decided to delete the item. I yelled to high heaven, and the other presidents laughed.

I kicked hard to Sacramento, and when I was up there Wednesday, everyone explained but the item was not put back. They tried to make me feel good by telling

Thrust and Parry

Dear Thrust and Parry:

I write this in a mixed mood of amusement, resentment, and irritation—such mood being a product of reading the Spartan Daily editorial of Thursday called "Job Forum Needed."

Evidently the writer is not aware that San Jose State has held Job Forums—called Job Seminars by us. One of these was held in the spring of 1949, the other in the spring of 1950.

The 1949 Seminar, held in conjunction with Stanford university and the University of Santa Clara, was a whopping success, chiefly because jobs were scarce that year. Last spring's seminar was a "flop" due primarily to lack of student interest. Jobs were easy to get. Stanford Graduate School of Business would have nothing to do with it and the University of Santa Clara participated only half-heartedly.

It might be possible—might, I say—that, if any serious interest were demonstrated on the part of this year's prospective job seekers, the Santa Clara Personnel association and other community groups which inspired and aided us before would be willing to do so again.

It might be possible that our Departments of Business, Engineering, and Social Science (Economics, Industrial Relations, Public Administration) which participated before would participate once again, but the demand would have to be very great. Personally, I would not give any of my time nor encourage any of my staff to give his unless the demand were overwhelming.

William H. Poytress,

Chivalry Lives!

The young lady shifted into low gear, cramped the wheel hard left and drove off, smiling in the knowledge that chivalry, at least on this campus, is far from being a corpse.

A moment before her car had been hopelessly bogged in a trench on Seventh street. The half-dozen Spartan men who had watched her execute an imperfect U-turn and slide into the ditch, snickered a bit, muttered something about "women drivers," and charged to the rescue.

A couple of grunts and muscle-bulgings later, the car was once again on solid ground. The damsel no longer distressed, blushed charmingly and made profuse thanks. The Galahadian Spartans lowered their heads shyly as if to say, "Aw shucks, mam, 't'wain't nothing."

Edited by DAVE GOODWIN

On this page recently appeared several jokes of dubious vintage and alleged humor that aroused comment of which the following is typical. One commentator has said, probably with truth, that the jokes had first been inscribed in ancient Sanskrit several thousand years B.C. and subsequently had lost some of their original flavor.

If this is so, I have probably made an archeological discovery, for the following joke undoubtedly antedates the aforementioned ones in both age and odor.

Comedian: "And there I was, alone, without food, adrift in a small boat in the midst of the most terrifying storm in history. It lasted for weeks, yet I managed to find food and survive."

Straight Man: "How . . . how could you find food if there was none left on board?"

Comedian: "I lived on eggs."

Straight Man: "Eggs?"

Comedian: "Yes, the ship lay to, and I got one."

Come to think of it, they might be able to trace its age with the Carbon 14 method.

While on the subject of (alleged) humor, Ka Leo O Hawaii, University of Hawaii student newspaper, tells of a certain history professor who once went through a whole lecture, jokes and all, wondering why the class paid no attention. He later discovered he had repeated the lesson of the day before.

What with the recent observance of Lincoln's birthday and the coming of March 15, we thought the following version of the Gettysburg Address printed in the Montana State University Kaimhi might be of interest to those worried about not being able to bribe tax officials any more and who have to pay their tributes to Uncle Sam for real this time.

It commences: "One score and sixteen years ago, our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game."

"Now we are engaged in a great mass of calculations, testing whether that taxpayer, or any taxpayer, so confused and so impoverished, can long endure. We are met on Form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with those men who here spend their lives that they may spend our money."

"It is altogether anguish and torture that we should do this. But in the legal sense we cannot evade, we cannot cheat, we cannot underestimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who computed here, have gone far beyond our power to add and subtract."

"Our creditors will little note nor long remember what we pay here, but the Bureau of Internal Revenue can never forget what we report here. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these vanished dollars we take increased devotion to the few remaining, that we here highly resolve that next year will not find us in a higher income tax bracket."

Senior 'Kills' Self

In MIT's physics classes, they still remember this one, according to the Tech, Massachusetts Institute of Technology student newspaper.

It seems the involved explanations of a problem in physics caused a senior to rise to his feet, mutter that enough was enough, draw a pistol, put it to his head and pull the trigger.

The explosion shattered the somber atmosphere and the student sank to the floor. It turned out, however, that the gun was only a cap pistol, but it had the desired effect.

Cheating High In Arkansas Final Exams

(This story, written by Bob Robertson, Arkansas Traveler staff writer, investigates end-of-semester cheating at the University of Arkansas recently.)

I went out yesterday to find 25 students who had cheated on final examinations.

I had my quota after 58 interviews. I talked to men and women, freshmen and seniors, engineers and business majors, nearly all of them. Provided they were telling the truth, 43 per cent of them were cheating.

Some of the people I talked with, I knew beforehand. Most of them I didn't. They knew what they said was going in the Traveler. They knew, too, that these names would not be used.

Here is what I learned.

The methods of cheating took various forms. Some students took notes with them to use during the test. Others said they gained a few points by using knowledge derived from the paper of the student sitting next to them, and still others went as far as stealing the tests the night before the finals.

One student admitted stealing "between 10 and 15 tests." He said that all his efforts went to benefit others. None of the tests were for his own classes, nor did he charge anything for his services. "I just did it for the hell of it," he said. His own morals, however, seemed to be untainted. He said he didn't cheat on any of his tests.

The majority of his loot came from the chemistry and business buildings and "Old Main." To gain entrance to the chemistry building, he scaled the back wall and climbed through a window. "Old Main" presented somewhat of a problem but it was solved by lowering a rope from the top floor to the window desired. The business building evidently presented little challenge for he didn't mention how he obtained entrance to it.

Most of the students who admitted cheating said that they felt no guilt. The general opinion was that everybody does it. Others said they felt they had to cheat in order to make good grades. If they didn't cheat they would lose out. The others who cheated would run the curve up and their grades would be lowered.

A number of those who said they didn't cheat reasoned that it was because they didn't have the chance. Few students said they would never cheat.

One student said that the lock on an instructor's office was broken the night before a final. The person who entered also damaged the lock on the filing cabinet without getting into it. But even if the filing cabinet could have been opened, it would have proved fruitless. The instructor had the questions at his home . . .

Undoubtedly the cheating is not a recent event. But students seem to be more inclined to talk about it now. Excused by the feeling that it is all right because "everybody does it," it will probably continue until a sense of honor can be instilled in the students.

East African Student Dislikes British Rule

A pre-med Stanford student, who is also a native of Nairobi, capital of Kenya in East Africa, offered a native's-eye opinion of British rule in that section of the so-called "Dark Continent," in a recent issue of the Stanford Daily. The student is Mungai Njoroge, a citizen of Nairobi.

First he commented on the fact that moving pictures made in Africa recently have reiterated the fallacy of the "Dark Continent." He says that natives now have more than enough light to see that the continuance of "imperialism" by colonial powers is becoming quite unpopular there.

He felt that the African would be better off developing his own civilization, even though the British are probably more advanced scientifically.

ish are probably more advanced scientifically.

"We like the British individually, but we hate British imperialism, exploitation, and domination. We want independence, which means, among other things, complete control of the government," he continued.

The British largely control Kenya's economic resources, coffee, cotton, tea, dairy products, and thus are able to maintain their high standards of living. The European standard of living is high while that of the natives is low. There are six and a half million natives and 30,000 Europeans in the country.

Racial discrimination exists, but is social, not legal. Although the British frown on intermarriage, the condition exists. Strangely enough, the East Africans often go to England, where discrimination is virtually non-existent, marry there, and return home.

Government is another realm in which British exploitation is felt, according to Njoroge. Only a small number of Africans are used in government, and these are in appointive posts, for the natives do not have voting privileges.

Schools for the native are conspicuous by their absence. Only four high schools, each accommodating 200 students, are available for native use.

USC Students for Liquor Law Change

About 65 per cent of University of Southern California students interviewed in regard to lowering of age limit for purchase of beer, ale and wine, approved the idea, according to the Daily Trojan.

(This is in contrast to the recent Spartan Daily poll in which a majority of Spartans interviewed rejected the proposal to lower age limits to 18 for purchase of the specified liquors.)

Women were almost equally divided on the subject. Sixty per cent were for lowering the age, while 40 per cent were against it. The men interviewed were more lenient in that 70 per cent were for the measure, and 10 per cent against it. Twenty per cent thought that men should be able to buy beer, wine and ale, but that women shouldn't.

One reason given in the story for lowering the age-limit was stated by Jackson Mayers, teaching assistant in economics, who said the law should be lowered because of "freedom of the choice of the consumer."

Margie Reay, 17, freshman in occupational therapy, said that she drinks "just once in a while." She was a bit skeptical about the whole subject, but thought it was all right to drink at home, but not in bars.

Kenneth Fuller, 19, medical student, thought that men in the armed forces should be allowed to buy liquor at their own discretion, but that women shouldn't.

Whitaker-Balbi

A heart-shaped box of candy with a verse attached served to announce the engagement of Beverly Whitaker and Louis Balbi Monday evening at the Alpha Chi Omega sorority house.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Whitaker of Sacramento, and is a senior recreation major here.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Balbi of Hayward. Lou was graduated from San Jose State college in June, and is affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He now is an accountant for a printing firm in Emeryville.

A summer wedding is planned.

Cuneo-Diez

A box of chocolates, topped with white carnations and a silver dove bearing an imitation engagement ring, recently revealed the engagement of Nancy Cuneo and Raul Diez to Nancy's Kappa Alpha Theta sorority sisters.

A junior secretarial major, Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Cuneo of Santa Rosa.

Raul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Diez of Santa Clara. He is a senior physical education major here.

Moore, a former University of Nevada and San Jose State college student, is now employed in San Jose. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moore of Bridgeport, Calif.

A June wedding is planned.

Alpha Phi's Honor Pledges at Dance

The Town and Country lodge in Ben Lomand was the scene of the Alpha Phi pledge dance held Saturday night. Couples danced to the music of Dick Garcia and his orchestra.

The rolling of drums preceded the introduction of the pledges. Big Sisters presented pledges with the traditional Alpha Phi Omega Chain and insignia. Couples then danced to the Alpha Phi "Sweet-heart Song."

Following the dance members and their dates attended a breakfast at the San Jose home of Pat Threlfall, while pledges went to Santa Cruz for breakfast at the home of Joanne Carroll.

Marylee Adams, social chairman, was in charge of the dance, and Diane Norris handled the publicity.

Proctor's recommends the design shown here. It is today's version of the classic Tiffany setting. An elegantly simple 14K gold mounting, glorifying a single diamond—in unquestionably good taste.

Dollar-wise, this design has many advantages. Because the all-important center diamond is the only diamond, it is larger and finer than if part of the cost went into surrounding diamonds.

Since the price of such a ring depends for the most part upon the diamond itself, Proctor's can offer this design at from $100 to $500. It's the size of the fine diamond which determines price. So this design may be had according to the amount you wish to invest.

Idaho Ring Meet Test for Spartans

By LLOYD BROWN

San Jose State boxers who journey to Pocatello, Ida., Thursday to participate in the sixth annual Intermountain tournament will be facing some of the best competition on the West Coast Friday and Saturday nights.

Ringmen from eight schools will be entered in the tournament: California, Cal Poly, UCLA, Santa Clara, Gonzaga, Idaho State, Idaho, and SJS.

The Spartans will have the most representatives, eight, and Gonzaga, favorites to garner the most wins, will enter six glovemen. Coach Dee Portal's squad lost their first dual match in 27 outings in the Northwest two weeks ago when Gonzaga defeated them, 5½-2½, at Spokane, and they will be seeking retribution in the Pocatello tourney.

Don Camp, Raider feather-weight who has been named team captain, will be one of four participants who won Intermountain titles in last year's tournament. He will probably face another "repeater" hopeful in Harley Towne. Towne, an Idaho State ringman, won the 130 lb. division in 1951 and has shown great strength during the current season.

Bob Dossey of UCLA and Ellsworth Webb of Idaho State will also be defending crowns earned in 1951. Jerry Stern looms as the biggest threat to stopping Dossey in the 147 lb. division. Stern has not been defeated this year, and Dossey might prove to be the strongest opposition the Spartan puncher has encountered this year. Seeding for the tourney has not yet taken place, and it is possible, but not probable, that the two will not meet.

The 156 lb. bouts may provide the most thrills for the fans, with four good ringmen entered in that weight division. Besides Webb, a transfer from Compton junior college, Stan Marcell, SJS; Tom Keys, Gonzaga; and Jack Bettencourt, Cal Poly, will be entered in this division. Keys defeated San Jose's Ed Heinrich in the Spokane match, and is highly regarded by Portal, Ike Deeter, Washington State coach, and Frank Young, Idaho's mentor.

Camp Annexes Athlete Award

Varsity Boxing Captain Don Camp, Spartan mentor from Quincy, was named the Athlete of the Month last night for the month of February by the Associated Men Students' committee.

Camp was the unanimous choice of the selection committee as "the individual who contributed most to San Jose State during the past month through the medium of athletics."

A strong contender for the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate 125 lb. title and prospective NCAA champ, Camp was unbeaten in six bouts last month.

Included in his efforts were draws with NCAA kingpin Neil Ofstun of Minnesota and PCI champion Frank Echevarria—two of the best men in the nation at his weight.

Others mentioned for the February award were Cager Elmer Craig, Wrestler Frank Waxham, Gymnast Irvin Faria, Swimmer Num Kong Fong, and Tennis Player Butch Krikorian.

Heavyweight Boxer Ted Springston won the January Athlete of the Month award.

Frosh Mermen in Three-Way Meet

Frosh swimmers of San Jose State will host Fremont and Campbell high schools today at 3:45 o'clock in a triangular meet in the Spartan pool.

Coach Charley Walker's first-year splashers should notch wins No. 3 and No. 4 today, as they are beginning to hit top form after two straight wins over Willow Glen and Livermore high schools. Their lone loss of the campaign came at the hands of a strong Stanford Frosh aggregation, 52-31, last month.

Leading the local frosh mermen are Jay Flood, Courtney Trimine, Ralph O'Harran, Brooke Vincent, Bob Gorman, Noel Knight, Dick Hays, Don Choate, and Bob Freitas.

To date, Gorman is the main point getter for the Spartan frosh swimmers and should cop his pet events, the 50 and 100-yard free style races.

Former Spartans In Armed Forces Enjoy 'Daily' News

Interest in Washington Square news to former students now in the Armed Forces was shown recently through the opinions expressed by Fred Roettger, former Spartan, who last month was discharged from the Navy.

Fred, who was stationed in the Naval hospital in Yokosuka, Japan, told the Spartan Daily that all during the time he was in Japan, he regularly received copies of the Daily and enjoyed reading about activities at the college. He said he especially followed with interest the account of the chapel's construction.

Fred received copies of the Daily when his name was put on the Daily's mailing list by a friend attending the college. It has been the policy of the Spartan Daily to send, free of charge, copies of the paper to former students who are serving with the Armed Forces.

Students who wish to have the Spartan Daily sent to Spartan servicemen must submit their names and addresses to the Graduate Manager's office.

SJS Baseballmen Face Grads Again

By TOM BURCH

If weather permits, Spartan baseballers will meet a highly touted alumni aggregation this afternoon at 3:15 p.m. in the San Jose Municipal stadium.

The teams met last Wednesday for the Spartans' first game of the season, with the varsity winning a 5-4 decision.

Slated to see action on the hill for the alumni are ex-Spartan hurlers Ralph Romero, Pete Mesa, Glen Davis and Bob Bowles.

Romero's alumni can field a terrific amount of power at the plate, with outfielders Bob Wuesthoff, Bill Hurst and Chuck Godshall. All three will see action in the pro ranks this spring.

The alumni infield will consist of Tom Burch, 1b; Earl Wright, 2b; Dick Lane, 3b, and Don Lopes, ss. Lopes and Wright worked the keystone for Walt Williams three years ago.

Leftthander Jim Collins will start on the mound for Williams' team. Collins started the game against the alumni the last time they met and went the first five innings without giving up an earned run.

For the alumni tilt Williams will start Jack Goetting at first, Jack Richards at second, Bob Glaves at third, and Cookie Camara will cover shortstop. Goetting collected two hits against the alumni in their last meeting.

Williams will start with Milt Manoukian, Joe Bonfiglio and Andy Miller in the outfield. Miller led the Spartans in hitting in '51 with a .310 batting average.

Another game scheduled for the Spartans this week is against the Naval Air Station of Alameda at 3:15 p.m. Friday.

John Oldham, who went the distance against Stanford Saturday, will start on the hill against the Navy, with catcher Bob Poole receiving his slants.

Williams will change the right side of his infield for the Navy game and will start Ed Hallberg on d. Palma also collected two at first and Ron Palma at secsafeties in the last meeting with the alumni.

Playing centerfield for Friday's game will be Ralph Cleland, veteran outfielder from last year's squad.

Williams had hopes of improving his team's base-running this week, but the rain has prevented practice of any kind thus far. Williams feels base-running was the team's main weakness in Saturday's game against Stanford, which the Spartans lost, 7-6 in the last inning.

Best High Jumper in the World This Year?

RATED THE THIRD BEST high jumper in the world with the Olympic Games this summer in Helsinki, Finland, his objective, Spartan Herm Wyatt will have plenty of incentive when Bud Winter's varsity trackmen open their season Saturday in the Long Beach Relays. Wyatt's all-time best is 6 ft. 7½ inches, registered last year at the Compton Invitational. The world mark is 6 ft. 11 inches.

Texas-born Track Celebrity Herman

Winter Has Olympic Threat In Ace High Jumper Wyatt

By BILL TUNNELL

Of the 17 men being sent to the Long Beach Relays this Saturday, the one with the best chance of copping a blue ribbon honor, off past performances, is Herman Wyatt, ace Spartan high jumper.

Wyatt's ending up in the capable hands of Coach Bud Winter at San Jose State came in a round-about manner, including a double switch in high schools half-way across the U.S.

Wyatt was born in Texarkana, Tex., and attended his first two years of high school at Hooks high in that city. In 1946 he moved to Los Angeles and spent his junior year at Jefferson high. He graduated at Hooks, after a move back to Texas in 1948, and to the later amazement of coaches throughout the country, never competed on a high school track team.

His talents at the high jump came first to the attention of Hershel Smith, track coach at Compton college, where Herman started his college education in 1949. In his first attempt at the intricately-timed event, Wyatt cleared the bar at 6' 2", whereupon Coach Smith entered him in the remaining two meets of the season.

In 1950, while still at Compton, Wyatt started to roll. He copped the junior college division at the West Coast Relays, the Western State conference meet, tied for first with Jack Razzetto, San Diego State, and Manuel Ronquillo, USC, at the Compton Invitational, and placed fourth in the National junior college meet. His top leap that year came at the Compton meet, where he hit 6' 5".

Last season, his first year of competition for the Spartans, Wyatt made a strong bid for an Olympic berth, with three leaps of 6' 7".

His top leap of the year again came at the Compton Invitational, where on his fourth jump Wyatt cleared an unofficial 6' 7½". His official winning jump was 6' 7".

Wyatt leaped himself into a trip to Ireland, Scotland, and England last year at the AAU meet in Berkeley. His second-place jump of 6' 7" qualified him for the trip, when the winner, John Hall of Florida, was unable to go, due to illness in the family.

He toured the British Isles on a team composed of Jim Fuchs of Yale; Herb McKenley, Jamaica; Gay Bryan, Stanford; Bob Chambers, USC; and Jim Ford, Drake. Clyde Littlefield, University of Texas, was the coach for the touring athletes.

One of his biggest thrills while on the trip, according to Wyatt, was his jump of 6' 7" at Glasgow, before a crowd of 130,000 track fans. He also ran up against his best overseas' competition at this meet in Patterson of Scotland, who had a second place jump of 6' 5".

Varneck, who has been in active competition for more than 10 years, and has a top leap of 6' 5½", puts it this way, "Last year Herm was just a kid jumping. He didn't know how he was doing it, he was just doing it. This year he's smart, he knows his faults, and works on them. I expect to see him in Helsinki this summer."

All-Star Team

The Spartan Daily's second annual all-independent basketball team will not appear until later in the week. Thus far, three coaches—Walt McPherson of the Spartans, Chris Kjeldsen of College of Pacific, and Phil Woolpert of USF—have sent in their choices. Yet to be heard from are Bob Feerick of Santa Clara, Dan Farmer of San Francisco State, and Tom Foley of St. Mary's.

Spartans Seek Crown In PCI Wrestling Meet

By DICK DEGNON

Wrestling teams from California, Washington State and San Jose State will stage a heated battle for top honors in the third annual Pacific Coast Intercollegiate mat championships to be staged at Cal Poly's Crandall gym, Friday and Saturday.

California and Washington State were co-champs in '51, but this year will find the going a bit tougher, as any one of the teams could come through with an upset.

Ted Mumby, Spartan grappling mentor, said yesterday that his squad will be well represented in every weight division, but the only sure point-getter in the Spartan camp seems to be defending PCI titlist Frank Waxham, who may move up to the 167 lb. division to get a shot at UCLA's Bryan Osborne.

The Spartans hold dual meet wins over Cal Poly, Washington State, Stanford, and Santa Clara, all of whom will be in the thick of it for the team championship this weekend.

Henry Stone, who is dean of the PCI coaches with 25 years of mat tutoring experience at Cal, will bring down a "deep" aggregation. The Bear grapplers hold an early season 19-15 win over the Spartan wrestlers. Their chief opposition will be in the persons of Bill Perry, 123 lb. third placer in last year's PCI tourney.

Other Bear stalwarts are Gene

Theios, 147 lbs.; Bob Rugg, 137 lbs.; and Julian Sanders, 130 lbs.

Mumby announced his entries yesterday. They are Kay Toyota, 115 lbs.; Tom Payne or Joe Ross, 123 lbs.; Joe Tiago, 130 lbs.; John Jackson, 137 lbs.; John Melendez, 147 lbs.; Waxham, 157 lbs.; Jim Elliot, 167 lbs.; Jim Van Heuten, 177 lbs.; Al Cadena, 191 lbs.; and heavyweight Jean Snyder.

Mumby said that all events will be packed with competition and that Waxham will be the only Spartan cinch-placer in the scoring column. Mumby's woes lie chiefly in the 123 lb. class, where Joe Tiago will get stiff competition from Santa Clara's Irvin Dahlberg.

Shown above decorating the table are Carol Breckenridge, Jeanne Murphy and Chairman Jean Winslow. The food classes now are studying foreign cookery. A Swedish dinner is planned for Thursday night. Lete Sdelman will be general chairman. Besides preparing the meal, the girls select the menu, purchase the supplies, decorate, serve the dinner, and act as hostesses. Miss Gladys Nevenzel is in charge of the group.

SJS Debaters Lose Duel on Politics

Rudy Gerken and Jim Maynard, debaters for the San Jose State college team, were adjudged "more persuasive" than their University of California rivals in a forensic duel yesterday at Mary Ann Gardens. But despite their superior persuasiveness, the Spartans lost by a score of 11 to 6.

The debate was presented before the Women's auxiliary of the Santa Clara County Medical society, members of the group judging the contest.

Topic of the debate was: Resolved, that California voters should adopt the Tenney Amendment to the state constitution in the November elections. The Spartans upheld the affirmative.
